

Pull Up A Chair Episode 3: “Food, Labor, and Climate Change”

Professor Enrique Ochoa’s publications:

Feeding Mexico: The Political Uses of Food Since 1910 (2000) Latina/o Los Angeles: Migrations, Communities, and Political Activism (2005) From Tortillas to Low-Carb Wraps: Capitalism and Mexican Food in Los Angeles Since the 1920s, Diálogo (2015) Political Histories of Food in The Oxford Handbook of Food History (2012) and Food History in Oxford University Bibliographies Online: Latin American Studies (2021)

Maize an Identity Crop:

▶ The Creation Story of the Maya

Maize and Appropriation:

▶ Noma Chef René Redzepi on How to Make Tortillas | The New York Times

Maize grounded in community

▶ Making Tamales: A Holiday Tradition | NYT Cooking

Links to Contemporary Maize and Agroecological Models:

Agroecological Response to Climate Disaster and Agribusiness

<https://resistanceshorts.wordpress.com/2018/10/03/dispatches-from-resistant-mexico-5-all-of-these-we-are-going-to-defend/>

Women and Agroecology

<https://resistanceshorts.wordpress.com/2020/11/17/dispatches-from-resistant-mexico-6-women-of-candelaria-2020-900/>

Popular Peasant Feminism and Agroecology

<https://vimeo.com/311913768>

Further Readings

<https://www.ucpress.edu/book/9780520289369/bite-back>

https://monthlyreview.org/product/a_foodies_guide_to_capitalism/